What is a keychain?

Keychains are practical accessories that serve the purpose of organizing and securing keys. They can also be a way to express individuality and personal style. In this article, we will explore different types of personalized keychains.

A keychain, also known as a keyring or key holder, is a small item used to hold and organize keys. It typically consists of a metal ring or loop that attaches to the key and a decorative or functional element attached to it. Key chains are often personalized with unique designs, logos, or tags to add a personal touch.

There are many kinds of keychains in the market, to be simple, we classify the categories based on its material.

FAQ :

Q:How do i custom my order?

A: Please send us your design along with size information, then our sales will guide you to confirm other details for quick quotation. After confirm price, we will provide formal PI before payment.

Q: Do you make sample for approval firstly?

A: Yes, as we mainly do custom products, we will arrange sample and show clear sample picture or video for customer's approval before mass production.
